Résumé

LOCATION: Schafftenau, TYPE: Hybrid Working, #LI Hybrid

As an Associate Director, Analytical Operations Austria, you will lead, coach, and manage a team of analytical experts who are responsible for enabling the release of clinical material, conducting stability studies, and supporting submissions. You will also be actively involved in a team that drives the implementation of the new site strategy for Analytical Operations Austria. You will shape and develop its strategic direction and drive operational excellence in line with Technical R&D vision and strategy.

You will need a proven track record of leading and managing teams of analytical experts, a solid understanding of analytical methods, techniques, and instruments, as well as GMP regulations and guidelines, a demonstrated ability to solve complex analytical problems, troubleshoot issues, and implement solutions, a high level of initiative, creativity, and innovation.

About the Role

Major accountabilities

- Demonstrate an exceptional level of creativity and inventiveness.
- Apply and/or develop advanced technologies, scientific principles, theories and concepts.
- Act often independently to uncover and resolve issues associated with the development and implementation of operational programs. Plan R&D programs and recommend technological application programs to accomplish long-range objectives. Work is checked only upon effectiveness of results achieved, which normally require a long-term perspective. Virtually self-supervisory.
- Strategic and/or management interface.
- Provide technical guidance and counsel for other professionals and represent the organization in external discussions and technical forums.
- Provide leadership direction, determination and development of solution approaches by coordinating multiple resources to solve complex problems.

Skills Grid

- Strong decision making: makes decisions independently, handle several activities at a time, ensure cGMP
- Influence: Proactively identify and resolve conflict situations, drive cultural evolution and change management, lead assigned functional sub-teams (or represent own function), assess, consolidate and negotiate internal resource needs for the team
- Experience Background: Successfully demonstrated several years (2-3 years) as senior expert / manager, recognized expertise in a specific area and broader scientific as well as strategic background, excellent communication / presentation skills, advanced coaching and mentoring skills
